I am frustrated as a community member who would like to receive information without feeling like I am trying to wade thru an "Occupy Triangle Lake" protest to receive information from my government officials on the brink of our testing information being released to us. And, it seems as if some of us people who were tested are "privy" to knowing our results ahead of time. I'm certainly NOT one of the "privy". How do I get on that list?

I just received the following email. I was wondering how this is going to facilitate informing our community members? I already went to one meeting like this in July that didn't allow me to feel comfortable asking questions and receiving answers. I don't know if there is a way to limit attendance to just community members AND have a general public session or not.

Thanks, Sandy
